

Abstract

A model railroad car magnetic coupling and uncoupling system employs pairs of cooperating magnetic couplers that have unique and simplified constructions, and an uncoupler mechanism that is mounted 5 beneath a section of model railroad track and operates automatically to separate the mechanical couplers of two adjacent model railroad cars positioned on the section of track.